THE SMALL FORTUNES SURVEY OF THE LIFESTYLES AND LIVING STANDARDS OF CHILDREN: DATABASE CODEBOOK

1 INTRODUCTION

The Small Fortunes survey was funded by the Joseph Rowntree Foundation. Fieldwork for the study was undertaken by Research Services Ltd. (RSL) between February and June 1995, and funded by the Joseph Rowntree Foundation (JRF). The survey was the outcome of qualitative development work undertaken by the Centre for Research in Social Policy (CRSP) for the Child Poverty Action Group (CPAG), and also funded by the JRF¹. Results from the initial analysis of the survey data were published as 'Small Fortunes: Spending on children, childhood poverty and parental sacrifice' (Middleton et al., 1997).

2 SAMPLING PROCEDURES

A clustered random sample design was used, with 49 postcode districts selected as the primary sampling units. However, in order to achieve sufficient subgroup numbers, the sample was also stratified according to the child's age group, family type and birth order.

The following definitions were used to produce a 16 cell matrix:

Family type:

- lone parent;
- two parents.

Birth order:

- first born;
- later born.

Four age groups were defined:

- under two years;
- over two and under five years;

¹ Findings from this project were reported in 'Family Fortunes: Pressures on parents and children in the 1990s' (Middleton et al., 1994).

- over five and under eleven years;
- over eleven and under seventeen years.

Sampling fractions varied between strata. Target cell sizes were specified in advance for each cell size and these are given, along with achieved cell sizes, in Table 1.

Table 1 Target and Achieved Stratified Interview Figures

The response rate on the issued sample was 65 per cent.

The sample was of individual children within families. However, it was considered inappropriate for a respondent to have to consider expenditure on more than one child because of the effort involved in completing the instrumentation and the likely detrimental effect upon response rates. Thus while all children were eligible for selection, in practice only one child from each household was issued to RSL for participation in the survey (the 'target' child). If a second child was selected from a household who had already had one child selected, the second child was removed from the issued sample. Therefore, the sample was selected on a household basis, but each child within the household initially had an approximately equal chance of selection according to his/her age, birth order and family type.

Two separate sampling frames were used, one for each family type. The first, for children living in two parent families, was compiled from Child Benefit records. These records were originally selected as a sampling frame for the Department of Social Security (DSS)/Policy Studies Institute (PSI) study of lone parents (McKay and Marsh, 1994). Fifty postcode regions were selected for the lone parent study and parents selected for the sample were each sent a letter offering them a chance to opt out². Two parent families were surplus to the requirements of that study, and those who had not opted out were made available for selection in the Small Fortunes survey.

The second sampling frame, of lone parents, was constructed from the Department of Social Security's One Parent Benefit Records, using the same postcode regions as were used in the DSS/PSI study. All one parent families from these regions were selected and sent opt-out letters in advance; those who did not choose to opt-out were available for selection.

Children were identified by interviewers on the doorstep by means of their age group. In case of confusion, when the family had two, or more, children within the same age group, the interviewer alternated between choosing the child who would be oldest on their next birthday, and the child who would be youngest on their next birthday.

For the purposes of allocating fieldwork to interviewers it was not possible to maintain the three-way stratification scheme determined by CRSP. Birth order was collapsed and the stratification included only the family type and age group of the child. This procedure did not appear to result in adverse consequences for the sample, and was incorporated into the weighting strategy (Annex A).

The aim of the survey was to produce a representative sample of the lifestyles and living standards of children in Britain. Given that the sampling was non-representative, weighting was required to correct for the selection methods used. This is discussed in greater detail in Annex A.

² One postcode region was in Northern Ireland and was excluded from the Small Fortunes survey, which focused on children in Britain).

3 FIELDWORK

Fieldwork was carried out between February and June 1995 by Research Services Limited. All interviews took place during the school term since lifestyles and expenditure patterns might be expected to differ between school terms and holidays.

Two face-to-face interviews were carried out with a parent, approximately one week apart. The adult chosen for the interview was defined as the person 'having the main day-to-day responsibility for the care of the child', (the 'primary care giver') almost invariably the mother. In addition, the primary care giver was left an expenditure diary to complete on a daily basis for one week, which also contained a self-completion questionnaire; and an inventory of the child's clothes and possessions. Permission for an interview with children aged over five years was also sought from both the parent and the child. Families were re-contacted at Christmas 1995 and asked to provide a list of up to 20 items which the child received for Christmas, along with the cost of each item and who provided it.

4 INSTRUMENTATION AND SUBJECT COVERAGE - QUESTIONNAIRES

Variable labelling on the database follows a standard convention which first uses prefix letters, corresponding to the questionnaire topic. The question number forms the second part of the label. Where the same questions were asked of more than one person in the household, or multiple response options were allowed, numbers relating to this make up the remainder of the variable label. Generally, an ampersand divides the question number from the reference number of the person referred to. For example, the variable name FC1b@1 refers to question FC1b, which asks for the sex of each child in the household in turn, the @1 denotes that this is the first child. Similarly, FC1b@2 stores data on the sex of the second child in the household, and so on. When information is collected on more than one child, data on the target child is always stored as the first occurrence. Thus, FC1b@1 denotes the sex of the target child; FC1c@1 the age of the target child, and so on.

The composition of each instrument is described in detail below, listing each subject area covered. The names in parenthesis following the instrument title identify the name of the database where the data are stored, for example (Adult 1). The letters in parenthesis next to each subject area within the instrument denote the prefix attached to the question number in the variable labels, for example, Family Composition (FC).

4.1 First Interview with the Primary Care Giver (Adult1)

Interview One was undertaken using Computer Assisted Personal Interviewing (CAPI).

4.1.1 Family composition (FC)

For the target child, and up to five other children in the household, the following information was collected: sex; age; whether or not the child had started school; relationship to the respondent; ethnic origin. Similar information was collected for each of up to four adults in the household, (excepting school information), and also about current economic activity; whether or not the person was the chief income earner; and a brief unemployment history over the last year.

4.1.2 Occupation (O)

Standard questions were asked to provide occupational information which can be used to derive socio-economic group. These questions were asked for up to three working adults in the household, and a maximum of two jobs for each person:

4.1.3 Other children (C)

Respondents were asked to report any regular expenditure on children under 17 who were not living at home.

4.1.4 Childcare (G)

Who, if anyone other than the primary care giver, looked after the target child during the day; for how many hours a week, and at what cost. Play group attendance. How many days in the last year had the target child missed school/play group through sickness, who looked after them, and for what cost. Similar care and cost questions were asked about the Christmas holidays; whether or not these arrangements were usual and, if not, what would the usual arrangements cost.

4.1.5 Baby-sitting (BS)

Whether or not the parent(s) ever went out in the evening; if so, who looked after the target child; how many evenings they had looked after the child in the past month; how much each baby sitter was paid; if this was usual; if not, how much is usual; if the parent(s) would like to go out more; if yes, what stops them.

4.1.6 Housing tenure and size (HT)

The type of accommodation the household occupies; the number of bedrooms; living rooms; bathrooms and toilets for sole use of the household. The presence of a kitchen, garage, garden, playroom and communal playing space. Whether or not the target child had their own or a shared bedroom; if shared, with whom. The length of tenure and when the family first moved there. Reasons for moving to the present accommodation; the importance of children in the reasons for moving; if the respondent would like to live in another area and why, or why not. The likelihood of moving; reasons for the proposed move; the importance of children in deciding to move. Whether or not the child ever lived away from the parent(s); if so where and how long for each other person the child sometimes lived with.

4.1.7 Attitudes to parenting (AP)

Attitude measures of the parent's beliefs about whether or not children had too much or too little. If the parent believed that the child was pressured to do or have certain things; the source and strength of such pressures. Attitudes to family roles, work and child rearing responsibilities.

4.1.8 Parental sacrifice (PS)

How often the parent(s) went without certain goods and services in order to provide for their children; things the parent went without last time; what the child received when the parent last went without; and why the parent(s) went without. The parent's attitudes towards providing goods and services for their children.

4.1.9 Parental aspirations (PA)

A list of ambitions which parents had for their children and why.

4.1.10 Behavioural measures of deprivation (BD)

This section replicated the ‘Breadline Britain’ procedural measure of poverty described by Mack and Lansley (1985). The items used in this study were child-related and were drawn from group discussions with parents during the qualitative work prior to the survey (see ‘Family Fortunes’: Middleton, Ashworth and Walker, 1994).

First, parents were given a list of 32 items, for each of which they were asked whether the item was ‘necessary’ or, ‘desirable, but not necessary’ for a child to have.

Second, for each of the 32 items parents had to state if the child: ‘has, couldn’t do without’; ‘has, could do without’; ‘doesn’t have, doesn’t want’; ‘doesn’t have, would like to have, but can’t afford’.

4.1.11 Access to facilities (AF)

Parents described the proximity of each of a number of child related leisure and recreational facilities, and the method of transport typically used by the child to get to school.

4.1.12 Parent-child interactions on finances (PC)

This section was asked of parents where the target child was over five years old.

If the child knew the amount of family income and, if so, how they had found out.

How often the child asked for things:

- the parent did not want them to have;
- the parent could not afford;
- the parent thought to be too expensive.

The reasons parents generally gave for refusing requests; the reason given last time they refused a request; the cost of items; how often the child asked; how long since the last time the child asked; whether or not the parent thought the child would get the item; if so, when; who would get it for the child. What the child did to try and get what they wanted when they had been refused something. What parents believed to be the main source of pressures on children.

In addition, all parents were asked to give a level of income which they thought necessary to keep a family of their size above the 'poverty line'.

4.1.13 Household income (I)

Household gross income - grouped bands.

4.2 Second Interview with the Primary Care Giver (Adult2)

The second interview was carried out using CAPI.

4.2.1 Education (ED)

The following questions were asked of two adults. Please note that in the original design it was intended only to ask these questions of the primary care giver and their partner, if any. However, some interviewers asked these questions about other second adults who were not partners of the care giver. It will, therefore, be necessary for the user to link the responses here to those asked about the relationship between the second adult and the respondent (FC2d@2).

Type of educational establishment attended; age left full-time education; further education; qualifications; returns to education in adulthood; reasons for returns.

4.2.2 Consumer durables (CD)

Possession of a range of consumer durables; how many in the family; age of the goods; if it was new/second-hand/handed-on; rented; the cost of each item. Any pets and the cost of these.

4.2.3 Income from employment (E)

Information was collected on each of up to four adults about their main job if they had one, and their second job, if appropriate. The main job was defined as that which brought in the most money. Similarly, if an adult was employed in three or more jobs, the second job was the one which brought in the next highest amount of earnings.

The data collected related to: gross and net pay; hours worked; employee/self-employed status.

It is worth bearing in mind that the respondent was the primary care giver of the child, typically the mother, and this may have contributed to a relatively high level of missing earnings data; particularly for self employed men in couples.

4.2.4 Income from benefits (IB)

The respondent was asked if anyone in the household received any one of up to 18 benefits; who received it and what amount.

4.2.5 Income from maintenance and other allowances (IM)

Information was collected for each of up to four adults on the receipt of any one or more of up to five types of allowances; the amount last received; whether or not this was the usual amount; if not, what the usual amount was; and any maintenance received, by whom.

4.2.6 Other income (F)

Information on income from other sources was collected from each of up to four adults, and for up to five sources, for each adult. Data include the amount last received; whether or not this was the usual amount; if not, what the usual amount was. Two further questions asked what the respondent thought was the appropriate amount of income needed 'by a family of your size to make ends meet'; and, 'how much you would need to spend on a child (age of their own target child) so they did not go without basic necessities'. These two questions were used to address issues of income and expenditure based measures concerning living standards and poverty.

4.2.7 Opportunity costs (OP)

The questions in this section address the issues of income foregone in order to bring up children. The data include paid work undertaken since the birth/adoption of the target child, and in the most recent job: hours, earnings, type of work, the nature of the organisation, travel to work distance, years in the job. Similar questions were asked of those who were in work before the birth/adoption of the target child. In addition, reasons for giving up before - and/or returning to work since - the birth/adoption of the child were collected. The impact of the child upon hours worked, by those in work before and after the birth of the child, was also explored.

4.2.8 Adults' standard of living (GV)

The respondent was asked, for each of 21 items, whether they: 'have, couldn't do without'; 'have, but could do without'; 'don't have, don't want'; 'don't have, can't afford'. These 21 items were a subset of those originally used for defining poverty in the 'Breadline Britain' survey (Mack and Lansley, 1985).

4.2.9 Savings (S)

The amount the family currently had saved; the amount of savings in the previous year; and the main reason if the current amount was less than the previous amount.

4.2.10 Household expenditure (HC)

The cost of rent/mortgage; services included in the rent; Council Tax payments; perceived value of house; type of mortgage; mortgage insurance and cost.

4.2.11 Other insurance (IP)

The cost of life insurance and other policies.

4.2.12 Other household bills (B)

The cost of water rates; telephone bills (the last bill, and the usual amount if the last bill differed); fuel; type of fuel used for heating and cooking; usual weekly food bills.

4.2.13 Cars (C)

The number of cars available for use, in the household. For each of up to four cars: ownership and sole use; cost of car insurance and petrol (weekly); age of cars.

4.2.14 Loans and credit (LC)

Whether or not the family had any debts; the cost of repayments; the lender. Cost of any outgoing maintenance payments.

4.2.15 Cost of target child (TC)

The parent's estimate of the overall cost of the target child; if this was more or less than the cost of other children; by how much more or less. Attitudes towards providing for children. The perceived cost of meeting a variety of living standards.

4.2.16 Relationship and health module (R)

Length of time in current relationship, if appropriate. Length of time in previous relationship, if appropriate. Relationship of target child to current partner; for those not with their biological father/mother; whether or not they see him/her; when was the last time.

Relationship status of parent when child was born/adopted.

Costs of smoking and alcohol consumption.

4.3 Interview with the Target Child (Child)

All children aged over five years (541) were eligible for interview, in total 435 interviews were achieved, a response rate of 80 per cent.

All questions in the children's questionnaire are referenced by the prefix letter 'C'. In contrast to the two adult questionnaires, the child's instrument was not subdivided into sections. The following issues were covered.

- Income: pocket money; sweet and snack money; earnings from work around the house, and from jobs outside the home (for children over the age of eleven years only).
- Perceptions of adequacy of own and family purchasing power.
- What children would want for their birthday - estimates of cost; why did they want it; who would provide; why would they provide.
- Perceptions of adequacy of own purchasing power compared to that of friends/peers.

- Play facilities - own and friends/peers.

In addition, the questions in the section on ‘Parent-Child Finances’ of the Adult 1 questionnaire (Section 4.1.12, above) were replicated with the children to allow for a comparison of the differences and similarities in the perceptions of the parent and child.

5 INVENTORIES OF STOCKS AND POSSESSIONS

Two sets of inventories, completed by the primary caregiver, were used to collect information on children’s stocks of possessions (clothes, toys, bedding and furniture, electrical equipment). The first, the Babygear Inventory, was completed for children aged under two years; the second, the ‘Clothes and Possessions Inventory’, was completed for all children aged over two years. For both inventories two formats were used. The first section of each booklet lists a number of items under each subsection, and asks the total number the child owns. Then, for the last item which the child had received, the following questions were asked:

- when did the child get it;
- if it was owned or shared;
- whether it was new, second-hand or handed-on;
- who gave it to the child; and
- if bought new or second hand by the parent(s), how much it had cost.

The second section of the booklet concentrates on toys and play materials for which it was not possible to list all the possible items under each heading. Therefore, parents were asked to give the total number of items, but only asked for extended information on the last three items the child received. For these three items parents were asked to fill in the same information as listed above.

The variable label convention is assigned as follows, and an example is provided from database CLTHPOSS, where the parent provided the child with the last shirt/blouse for their school uniform. PLEASE NOTE THAT ALL MONETARY AMOUNTS ARE IN POUNDS STERLING.

- Instrument indicator. (D) Clothes and Possessions
- Generic heading number (01) School Uniform
- Item number (01) Shirts/Blouses
- Question number (6)
- Multiple response option (1)

The question numbers (bullet point 4, above) refer to:

- the total number, of this type of items, the child owns (1);
- then for the last item:
- when did the child get it (2);
 - if it is owned or shared (4);
 - whether it was new, second-hand or handed-on (5);
 - who gave it to the child (6);
 - how much was it (7).

Please note that question 3 in the inventory (the year the child received the item) has been coded with the variable ‘when did the child get it’.

Up to seven people could have provided the last item, and may have shared the cost, thus necessitating a multiple response option. The options are:

- parent/current partner (1);
- absent parent (2);
- other child (3);
- grandparents (4);
- other relative (5);
- friend (6);
- child bought themselves (7).

5.1 Children's Clothes and Possessions Booklet

(CLTHPOSS)

Sections with items listed explicitly under their generic heading are presented first, followed by the generic heading of items for which information is restricted to the last three the child received.

5.1.1 Generic headings of explicitly listed items

(D)

The generic heading number is given first, in parenthesis, followed by the number of pre-coded items included under that generic heading. Since 01 is the generic heading for School Uniform and there are nine pre-coded items for School Uniform, variables which begin D0108 will refer to overall/apron under School Uniform, whereas variables which begin D0406 are for dresses under Homewear.

- School uniform (01; 09)
- Games/sports kit (02; 21)
- Clothes for activities not listed elsewhere (03; 04)
- Homewear (04; 21)
- Outerwear (05; 07)
- Underwear (06; 09)
- Nightwear (07; 05)
- Footwear not listed elsewhere (08; 06)
- Other clothes not listed elsewhere (09; 06)
- Bedroom (10; 20)
- Mobile equipment (11; 06)
- Garden toys (12; 08)
- Computers and computer equipment (13; 05)
- Audio, visual and musical equipment (14; 12)
- Other electrical equipment (15; 06)

5.1.2 Generic headings of the restricted item lists (D)

The generic heading number is given in parenthesis; with the maximum number of items about which detailed information was provided always being three.

- Dolls, play figures and equipment (16)
- Soft toys (17)
- Toy cars, trains etc. (18)
- Construction toys (19)
- Games and cards (20)
- Jigsaw puzzles (21)
- Books (22)
- Magazines and comics (23)
- Stationery, writing, painting and drawing (24)
- Craft equipment (25)
- Ornaments, pictures and posters (26)
- Jewellery and cosmetics (27)
- Sports equipment (28)
- Computer accessories and games (29)
- CDs, records and cassettes (30)
- Videos (31)
- Sheet music (32)
- Other toys and equipment (33)
- Collections (34)
- Other possessions (35)

5.2 Babygear Inventory (BABGEAR)

5.2.1 Generic headings of explicitly listed items (D)

- Feeding (36; 15)
- Other Equipment (37; 11)
- Nappies and Cleaning (38; 17)
- Sleeping (39; 08)

- Bedroom and Furniture (40; 10)
- Transport (41; 11)
- Clothes (42; 25)

5.2.2 Generic headings of the restricted item lists (D)

- Dolls and Equipment (43)
- Cot and Pram Toys (44)
- Soft Toys (45)
- Bath Toys (46)
- Toy Cars, Trains etc. (47)
- Garden Toys (48)
- Construction Toys (49)
- Push-along Car/Tricycle (50)
- Games and Jigsaws (51)
- Reading Materials (52)
- Stationery and Crafts (53)
- Pictures/Posters/Ornaments (54)
- Other Toys/Play Equipment (55)
- Other Equipment, Clothes, Toys (56)

6 EXPENDITURE DIARIES

It was anticipated that expenditure patterns on children would differ significantly between those in full-time school and pre-school children. Therefore, two expenditure diaries were used. These were again completed by the primary caregiver. PLEASE NOTE THAT ALL MONETARY AMOUNTS ARE IN POUNDS STERLING.

6.1 Pre-school Age Expenditure Diary

(PRESEXP)

N = 607

For each of seven days, parents answered questions which were divided into the following sections. The variable labels are constructed as follows³:

- Instrument identifier (Z)
- Day number (1-7)
- Section number (1-5)
- Question number(s) (1-y)

6.1.1 Food and drink prepared at home (1)

- | | | Cost |
|---------------------------|-----|------|
| • Breakfast | (1) | (1) |
| • Lunch | (2) | (1) |
| • Evening Meal | (3) | (1) |
| • Supper | (4) | (1) |
| • Other snacks and drinks | (5) | (1) |

6.1.2 Food and drink prepared outside the home (2)

- | | | Cost |
|------------------|---------|------|
| • Food item | (01-03) | (1) |
| • Where eaten | (4) | |
| • Who paid | (2) | |
| • You/partner | (1) | |
| • Absent parent | (2) | |
| • Other child | (3) | |
| • Grandparent(s) | (4) | |
| • Other relative | (5) | |
| • Friend | (6) | |

³ Section numbers run from 1-5, but no section three exists.

Example: for the second item of food, prepared outside the home, paid for by a grandparent, on day one, the variable names would deconstruct as:

Who Paid		Cost
Z	Questionnaire heading	Z
1	Day number	1
2	Section heading	2
02	Item number	02
2	Who paid:
4	grandparent
	Cost	1

6.1.3 Activities

(4)

For each activity, the cost of the activity (1) and any associated travel cost (3) was obtained.

Type of activity

		Activity Cost	Travel Cost
• Mother and toddler/playgroups	(01)	(1)	(3)
• Nursery/creche/childminder	(02)	(1)	(3)

7 SELF-COMPLETION QUESTIONNAIRE (SELFCOMP)

Each of the expenditure diaries contained a self-completion questionnaire. These have been combined into a single database. All variables labels start with the prefix DQ, and the following topics are covered. PLEASE NOTE THAT ALL MONETARY AMOUNTS ARE IN POUNDS STERLING.

- Outings
- Daytrips and weekends away
- Holidays
- Birthdays
- School trips and holidays^a
- Other trips and holidays
- Child's money
- Jobs undertaken by children (in and out of the home)^a

^a only asked of children aged five and over.

8 SPENDING ON CHRISTMAS (XMAS)

N=922

Information about spending on the child at Christmas 1995 was collected by means of a postal questionnaire sent to parents. All variable labels start with the prefix V.

- 011 - 201 cost of up to 20 presents bought and paid for by the child's parent(s).
- 361 cost of any further presents bought and paid for by the child's parent(s).
- 362 whether spending was the same as in other years.

The remainder of the data base records the cost of presents bought by people other than the child's parents (V21 - V35).

ANNEXES

PREFACE

This paper describes the sampling procedures used to generate the Small Fortunes sample and draws attention to issues concerning their use when generalising from the sample to the population of children as a whole. The weighting procedures were used to correct for potential bias introduced by the selection and sampling methods. Much of the paper is based on a report produced by Peter Lynn, a statistical consultant, to whom we are indebted for his help and expertise.

ANNEX A THE WEIGHTING SCHEME

Two stages of weighting were applied. The first corrected for the differential sampling fractions used to select cases. The second was a post-stratification weight which adjusted the sample to the population as defined by the PSI sift data (Full details of the weighting procedures are given in Annex B.).

A1 Correcting for Differential Selection Fractions

A1.1 The Two Parent Sample

The two parent sample was corrected for the selection procedures used by CRSP and RSL. Selection by PSI essentially used the same sampling fractions across areas, and thus can be ignored. An initial weight defined by the eight cells (age group by birth order) used by CRSP was calculated as the ratio of the number available for selection to the number actually passed to RSL, within each cell of the stratification matrix. Similarly, within each of the four age groups used by RSL for selection, a further weight was calculated as the ratio of the number available for selection to the number issued to the field force. The product of these two weights was used to correct for differential selection fractions at each stage of the sampling procedure.

A1.2 The Lone Parent Sample

The same mechanisms used to correct for the CRSP and RSL selection procedures with respect to the two parent sample were employed. However, the selection probabilities used by CRSP to generate the sample sent to the DSS differed across the 49 areas. This required an additional weight to be calculated. This was approximately the ratio of the average number of children in all areas to the actual number of children in each area. In practice, minimum and maximum limits were imposed to reduce sampling variance (see Annex B). Thus, the lone parent selection weight was the product of three components.

A2 Post-Stratification Weighting

In order to weight back to the population as a whole (and correct for elements of non-response), the ratio of the number in the PSI sample to the number of weighted cases (using the weight described above) within each of the 16 stratification cells of the sampling matrix was used. This second weight was then multiplied through by the first weight to given an overall correction for differential sampling fractions and non-response.

ANNEX B

CALCULATION OF THE WEIGHTS

There were five stages in the weighting procedure, referred to in parentheses after each equation.

The first differential selection weight (W1a) was constructed as follows:

$$W1(a) = F(1)ijk/N(1)ijk \quad (1)$$

Where F(1)ijk was the number issued to RSL; and N(1)ijk was the number available to CRSP for selection.

i = 1 to 2 (Family Type)

j = 1 to 4 (Age Group)

k = 1 to 2 (Birth Order)

The numbers are given in Table 1, below.

Table A.1 CRSP Selection Stage

Age Group		Family Type
		Lone Parent		Two Parent
		Birth Order		Birth Order
		First	Later	First	Later
0<2	CRSP	1566	1625	394	583
	RSL	387	377	291	350
2<5	CRSP	1609	1389	748	967
	RSL	177	175	182	221
5<11	CRSP	6075	4558	1368	1707
	RSL	189	181	174	227
11<16	CRSP	5117	1672	1444	1223
	RSL	197	197	158	226

Note: CRSP figures refer to those children available for selection;

RSL figures refer to those issued to RSL by CRSP (before opt-outs from lone parents).

The second differential sampling fraction (W1b) corrected for the RSL selection stage, which did not account for birth order. In addition, RSL selection procedures reduced the number supplied by CRSP from 1829 to 1391. The weight was constructed as follows:

$$W1(b) = F(2)_{ij.} / (N(2)_{ij.} + F(2)_{ij.}) \quad (2)$$

Where $F(2)_{ij.}$ was the number available to RSL for selection; and $N(2)_{ij.}$ was the number issued by RSL to the interviewers. The period (.) indicates summation over birth order, and i and j are as above.

Table A.2 RSL Selection Stage

Age group	Family type
	Lone parent		Two parent
	Sampled	Total	Sampled	Total
0<2	242	421	266	641
2<5	199	253	313	403
5<11	197	253	286	401
11<15	183	246	220	384

The third weight was used to correct for differential sampling fractions according to the areas used for sampling. Adjusted for the probability proportionate to size procedure used to select the lone parent families, in contrast to the equal numbers selected within.

$W1(c) = 1$ if the child was from a two parent family, and;

$$W1(c)l = \frac{\sum_{l=1}^{49} N(1)l/49}{N(1)l} \quad (3)$$

Where $l = 1$ to 49 (sampling areas), and $N(1)l$ was the (population) number available for selection in the l th area.

In practice, $\sum_{l=1}^{49} N(1)l/49$ was rounded off to 500, and, in order to reduce sampling variance, minima and maxima were imposed at 500/1300 and 500/200, respectively.

In total, $W1 = W1(a) * W1(b) * W1(c)$, which produced the weight to correct for the differential sampling stages.

The post-stratification weight was constructed as follows:

$$W2 = N(2)ijk / (W1ijk * F3ijk) \quad (4)$$

Where $N(2)$ is the number of children in the ijk th cell as defined by the PSI sample (i.e. it is the population base reference, and for children in two parent families is equal to $N(1)$); and, $(W1 * F(3))$ is the number of achieved interviews weighted by $W1$.

Table A.3 Figures for Post-Stratification

Age Group		Family Type
		Lone Parent		Two Parent
		Birth Order		Birth Order
		First	Later	First	Later
0<2	PSI	87	107	394	583
	Weighted	433	607	206	306
2<5	PSI	190	201	748	967
	Weighted	486	1257	571	901
5<11	PSI	421	400	1368	1707
	Weighted	2806	2557	761	854
11<16	PSI	420	230	1444	1223
	Weighted	3624	624	1765	482

Thus, the overall weight was calculated as:

$$W = W1 * W2 \quad (5)$$

W weights back to the population as described by the PSI sample after adjusting for the bias which may have been introduced at the different stages of sample selection; and differential non-response according to the stratification design.

COMPLETING PRE-SCHOOL CHILDREN'S EXPENDITURE DIARY

Why a diary?

We would like you to keep a record for one week of what you spend on the selected child only. This information will be used to estimate what parents regularly spend on their children.

Do not worry if you spend more or less on the child than normal during the diary week. Just write down everything that you actually spend.

How to fill in this diary

There is an example of how to complete this diary on the next page. The interviewer will have taken you through this example when s/he left the diary with you. You should start the diary the day after the interviewer called and it is important that you keep it for seven consecutive days. Each day please put the date and circle the day of the week. Don't worry if you don't know exact costs, but please estimate as accurately as possible.

1. Food and Drink Prepared at Home

Please write down here everything which the selected child eats and drinks which is prepared at home. This includes ready made foods such as pizzas which you buy and heat at home.

Lunches eaten at nursery/playgroup etc. If a packed lunch is prepared at home, write this down under "food and drink prepared at home". If a lunch is bought for the child at nursery or playgroup or if the child has a free meal, write this down under "food and drink prepared outside the home." Please be as accurate as possible about the cost. Do not forget other sweets, crisps, snacks and drinks.

2. Food and Drink Prepared Outside the Home

Write down here everything which the selected child eats and drinks which is prepared outside the home. This includes food eaten at friends' houses and in restaurants; it also includes food eaten at home prepared at a takeaway, or snacks bought in a shop and eaten away from home.

Remember to write down the cost of lunches prepared at nursery or playgroup etc. If the child has a free meal at their nursery or playgroup, or if the food was free, for example because it was prepared by a friend, please write 00.00 for the cost. Again, please be as accurate as possible about the cost.

3 Activities

This is where you write down any activities which the selected child does which cost money. If you pay for more than one session at a time, for example, if you pay in advance for a number of sessions, please write in the cost of one session, even if you didn't actually pay this week.

Sports/Music/Dance. You should write down here the cost for your child playing a sport (including swimming) or having a lesson. You should also write down the cost of any music, dancing or other lessons which the child has.

If you pay for the selected child to do more than one thing in a category on any one day, then please write down the total cost. For example, if your child goes to a childminder and to a crèche on the same day, write down the total combined cost. There is space to enter any other activities which s/he does at school which cost money.

6. Other Purchases

This section is where you write down any other money which you spend on or give to your child on each day covered by the diary and which is not covered in the rest of the diary.

7. Day Seven

There is an extra section to the diary on the final day. This is for you to write down any money which was given to the child during the diary week which is not recorded elsewhere in the diary. For example, if you or your parents give your child some pocket money during the week, and s/he has not spent it by Day 7, this is where the amount not spent should be recorded.

Don't worry if you cannot remember all the details, but please fill in as much as you can.

THE INTERVIEWER WILL CALL TO COLLECT THE DIARY ON THE AGREED DATE.

QUESTIONNAIRE

Thank you for filling in diary.

Finally we'd like you to answer a few questions about spending and saving for your child. This is so that we have a complete picture of what families like yours are spending on children.

These questions are about some of the things which your child might do which cost you money but which probably won't have happened during the week you have been keeping the diary.

The first part of the questionnaire is about the selected child and any other children you have.

Please answer the questions as fully as possible.

Remember that any information which you give us is strictly confidential

COMPLETING THE CLOTHES AND POSSESSIONS BOOKLET

Why a clothes and possessions booklet?

In this booklet we want you to write down the clothes and other things, such as toys, games and furniture, which the selected child has. Once you and other parents with children of this age have completed this booklet we will be able to estimate the types and numbers of possessions owned by children of his/her age and how much money on average is spent on them.

How to fill in this booklet

The interviewer will have explained to you how to complete this booklet when s/he left it with you. It is important that you complete this booklet only in relation to the selected child. If the selected child is old enough, you may find it helpful for her/him to help you complete the booklet.

It is split into a number of sections, including Clothes, Bedroom, Computers, Dolls, Games and Jigsaws, Books and Sports Equipment.

Clothes, Bedroom, Large Toys and Electrical Items

The first three sections of the booklet are about the child's clothes, some of the things s/he might have in her/his bedroom, and the large toys and electrical items which some children have. Please make sure that you only include items which are specifically for the use of the selected child and not those which are for general use by all members of the household.

In these sections we have listed the items. Please complete the sheet in full for each item which your child has. An example showing how to complete these sections of the booklet is on the next page.

For each item you are asked to enter:

- the total number of the item which the child has (for example, number of pairs of pants, shirts, computers, radios and so on);
- when the child received the most recent item;
- whether this item is owned by the selected child solely or shared with other children in your household;
- whether it was new or second hand when the child got it;
- who provided the item;
- if it was bought new or second hand by you or your current partner you should write down the price at the time it was bought;
- if it was bought by anyone other than you or your current partner, there is no need to enter the price.

For example, if it was bought by the child's absent parent who does not live with you, or an aunt or uncle, or if it was handed on by another child in the household, you do not need to write down the cost.

Instructions for the other sections of this booklet can be found at the start of the fourth section.

If the selected child has any items of clothing or other toys and equipment which are not included in any of the sections, please write them down on the pages which are headed "other clothing not listed elsewhere" and "other toys and equipment".

SMALL TOYS AND OTHER POSSESSIONS

In the remaining sections we have not been able to list all the possible items which a child might have. So we are asking you to write down the total number of items in each section which the child has and detailed information only about the last three items which the child has received in each section. Each of these sections has a guide at the top of the page to give you an idea of the types of items that should be included on that page. For example, under “Sports Equipment” we would like you to record such things as tennis racquets, pool tables, cricket bats, balls, riding equipment etc., which the selected child has.

If your child has a “set” of something, eg. lego/duplo, this should be included as one item if it was obtained as a set. Each part of a set obtained separately counts as a single item.

Don't worry if you cannot remember all the details, but please fill in as much as you can.

An example showing how to complete the remaining sections of this booklet is shown on the next page.

EXAMPLE

DOLLS, PLAY FIGURES AND EQUIPMENT

This section includes all dolls, dolls clothes and other accessories such as prams. It also includes toy figures such as Action man, Batman, X-Men and Power Rangers.

How many dolls, play figures or equipment does the selected child have?
